THE CHALLENGES OF CHANGE

As we hurry frantically to make all of the necessary changes for semester conversion before the end of the school year, the thought comes to mind – will we be ready for fall semester? Even though it may not feel comfortable, I'm sure that our faculty members will demonstrate their durability, creativity, and ingenuity in the recreating of their courses. And yes, we are finding that there are some additional "teaching tools" out there for us to experiment with – technology, cooperative learning strategies, accelerated learning strategies, and the like.

With the Bush Grant becoming available in late fall, what "learning by doing" strategies would you like to investigate and determine merit for? Start brainstorming all of those techniques that you have considered, but perhaps never tried. As we get closer to the reality of the Bush Grant, we will give you guidelines as to what we are looking for, when it will be due, and what rationale is key. Think – "LEARNING BY DOING" !
